Mr. Dale estimated that by consolidating the city and county offices, $150,000 to $175,000 would be saved annually. This would be a great help in furnishing an aditional water supply, sufficient for the growing needs of Salt Lake City. He urged that action be taken promptly, so that the matter could be presented to the legislature in time. There was a lull, and M. H. Desky suggested that the club should take up the unsatisfactory street car service and do something. President Nelden said there had been a large number of protests made recently, and asked to hear from the members present.

sear from the members present.

S. C. Ewing called attention to the fact that a city ordinance requires the street car company to keep the crossings in good condition. He said this is not done, that it is dangerous in many places to cross the car tracks in a buggy faster than a walk, and that the ordinance should be enforced.

George Mueller said the cars were George Mueller said the cars were filthy, and carried disease germs. He urged that the companies be forced to keep the cars absolutely clean. Criticises the Company.

Defeats Loofbourow For President of Young Men's Republican Club.

Young Men's Republican Club.

The Young Men's Republican club of Salt Lake held a meeting in Judge Tanner's court room last evening, to elect officers for the ensuing year.

J. F. McKnight, the retiring president, addressed the club, giving a history of the organization and reviewing its work during the past year.

When election of officers was called for, County Attorney-elect George Westervelt nominated A. F. Lawson, while Parley P. Christensen put in nomination the name of Fred C. Loofbourow. The contest was spirited, but resulted in the election of president, Mr.

Graves Had Been Drinking.

"He bought a complete outfit, with the exception of hat and shoes, and then an nounced that he was going to buy some presents for his children, who are living with their mother here, He had been drinking some when I met him, but he was able to talk business all right, and I wouldn't say he was drunk.

"When we got over on State street he suddenly began to abuse me and my family, especially my sister, his former wife. He called her and my mother several vile names, and then I chipped in and told him he couldn't abuse my folks any more. At that he drew a knife with a blade about six inches long and said he would carve me if I gave him any back talk.

Arthur Humpheries Makes Vicious Attack on Alma Graves.

a quarrel, said to have originated over a debt of 45 cents, Arthur C. Humpheries inflicted what will probably prove to be fatal injuries on Alma ably prove to be fatal injuries on Alma Graves, a former brother-in-law of Humpheries, According to the story told by Humpheries, who is now in custody, he, with Graves, repaired to the yard back of the Miller hotel at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon to fight out the quarrel with their fists. He admits administering the beating to Graves, but demies that he used anything but his hands in doing it.

Three witnesses of the affray will testify that after knocking Graves down, Humpheries brutally kicked him in the face several times and then fled. Graves was carried to the police station in the patrol wagon, and Dr. R. A. Greene was summoned. He found the man unconscious and unrecognizable on account of his bruised and bloody face.
When the blood was washed off, Graves was found to be bleeding from the right ear, and as this is a symptom of a fracture at the base of the skull, the physician believes that he is severely injured and says that if it should prove true that the skull is fractured at that point, there is very slight hope of recovery. Both eyes were swollen and discolored and the entire left side of the face resembled a piece of raw beefsteak. He was taken to Holy Cross hospital and is still unconscious.

Kicked the Prostrate Man.

Kicked the Prostrate Man.

George Hill, a youth who witnessed the encounter from the loft of a nearby barn, says that after knocking his opponent down. Humpherles kicked his face into the dirt, and then stooping down turned the head and kicked the other side. After the fight Humpherles went to his home at 35½ East Fourth South street. He was captured on Second South street last evening about 7 o'clock by Sergeant Hempel and Defect'ves Chase and Raleigh. He claims that at the time he was on his way to the police station to give himself up. He will be held until the result of Graves' injuries are-known.

When seen at the station last night Humpherles appeared to be cool and collected, and apparently does not realize that Graves is in a serious condition. The prisoner is only 25 years old, and is much smaller than the man who now lies in Holy Cross hospital in a state of coma.

"Til tell you how it was," said Humpheries. "This man Graves married a sister of mine several years ago and they had three children. He was always abusive eries. "This man Graves married a sister of mine several years ago and they had three children. He was always abusive toward her and became violent when he was drinking. They were living in Provo, and my sister, unable to put up with his conduct any longer, secured a divorce about a year ago, and also the custody of the children. Since then Graves has been working around on ranches, and I had not seen him for some time, when I met him at Main and Second South street yesterday morn going to buy some clothes, and asked me to go with him.

Taught Him a Lesson.

"When we got around in the yard he asked me what he owed me, and I told him $6 or $7, and added that if he would give me $5 I'd call it square. He said I was a — licr, and then we mixed. I don't remember kicking him at all, but I'm sure I gave him the worst of it. I won't stand for anybody throwing off on any of my women folks, and this may teach Graves a lesson. Of course if he dies I'll be up against it, won't I? But I don't believe he will die."

When told that Graves was still insensible he remarked that it was because he was drunk and that when he got over the whisky he would be all right. Dr. Greene says that even if Graves had been drunk the injuries which he has sustained would have had a tendency to sober him.

George Hill, a young man who was in the loft of the stable near which the encounter took place, says that he did not see the men come into the yard, and that his attention was attracted to them by the sound of their voices. He heard Graves say, "How much do I owe you?" and Humpheries answer that he owed him for a week's keep.

Graves denied his, and said: "I only owe you for a day, and I gave you a pocketbook and 50 cents this morning. All I owe you is 45 cents and I'll pay you that."

Then Hill says that Humpheries applied

TEACHER LEAVES.—At a meeting of the board of education yesterday a communication was read from Superintendent Christensen stating that he had accidentally discovered that Miss Laura Beason, formerly a teacher in the Lincoln school, under regular contract, left the city Saturday to accept a position in the public schools of Seattle. No notice of her departure had been given, said the superintendent, and if he had not made the discovery of her departure an empty room would have been found at the Lincoln school yesterday. Instead, however, he at once secured the services of a teacher, who assumed her duties at once. The committee on building and grounds was authorized to place insurance on the following places: The Lincoln school, $5.000 additional; the Wasatch, $5.000; the Wasatch warehouse, $1,500; contents of the storeroom of the Thirteenth ward school building, $8,000; Union school, $5.000. The canvass of the election returns will not be completed until today.
